THE Tamshi correspondent of the Shanghai Mercury writes :- There is a rumour affeat here, that there is an undertaking under way, to have the Kelung coal mines rented by a European firm for a certain number of all young women to pledge themselves that years, and of course worked under Euro. they will never bet, never share in a raffle pean engineers. MRs Chamberlain, writes a London correspondent of a provincial paper, is taking up a very strong and at the same time a very novel position in London society, and a good deal of curiosity is excited as to the issue. It is notorious that of late years the without any word of explanation less the have received the Grand Cross of the Legion | room-to the astonishment of her hostess. who was a well-known lady of title

The Chinese Emigration Ordinance appears to be one of the many local laws which by OUTWARD BOUND: - Shelly, Endeavour, June their profound incomprehensibleness in some points have a strong tendency to produce suftening of the brain among the members of the legal and judicisl profession a magistrate and two solicitors spent the greater portion of this afternoon in vain guesses as to what the legislature was thinking of when certain portions of the measure were framed, and the only conclusion left to them was that the legislature could not have been thinking at all. The struggle with the ordinance arose over a case in which a boarding house man was charged with acting as a passage broker without a licence. The defendant was the same man who was charged the other day with trying to send a disgulsed lukong to Singapore as an emigrant, against his will -a charge which broke down on account of the lukong having been apparently a consenting party in all that was done. The evidence for the prosecution in connection with the new charge was intended to show. that a passage ticket for Singapore had expected here on or about the 18th been obtained for the lukong by the defondant, the latter holding no licence as a left Singapore on the 15th inst., and passenger broker. The case was heard by may be expected here on or about the Mr Pollock this afternoon. Mr Stokes appeared for the Crown, and Mr Wilkinson for the defence. Lam Tung, the decoy? and may be expected here on or about lukong, stated the defendant took him on board the s. s. Bormida on the 4th inst. as an emigrant and supplied him with a passage ticket for Singapore, requesting him at the same time to take the document, to the Emigration Office agent on board and get it stamped. The stamp was duly affixed without any question being saked, and the pretended emigrant afterwards at defendant's request signed what turned out to be a promissory note for $16 for his passage and other expenses.' Mr Hermann Duhrssen, of Measra Carlowitz and Co's Office, stated that the passage ticket in question was issued from that office, the broker being Mr Gorham of the Pacific Mail agency. Mr J. L. de 8 Alves, of the Emigration Department, gave ovidence to the effect that the defendant was not a licenced passage broker, and Liverpool, left Singapore for this port this mentioned that the list of passage brokers contained only one Chinese name, that of Mr Chan King Poo. Mr Stokes at the close of the evidence submitted that he had proved the charge against the defendant. His Worship said he had a difficulty in understanding exactly what was meant by the words in the amended ordinance which limited the application of the section on which the prosecution was based He is accompanied by Commandant Gregoire to ships about to proceed on a voyage of not less than seven days duration. Mr Stokes contended that the legislature by these words must have meant to include Si: gapore as a place seven days' distant, and Mr Wilkinson argued the contrary, contending that the intention of the legislature must have been expressly to exclude client. Ultimately his Worship said that on account of the difficulties the case presented he would reserve judgment till

A very distinct shock of cartiquake took place at Taku on the 3rd instant about 4 10 p.m. The shock was not severe, but sufficient to rattle windows, and cause lamps and pictures to sway to and fro. by the Japanese Government with Russia Italy and Belgium. A new treaty with France has been nearly concluded and will be ratified by both Governments shortly. The general impression is that Russia will be the next country to make a new treaty. Much excitement has prevailed lately among the firemen of Hamburg steamers owing to a rumour that the King Sin Line intended to man their vessels with Chinese firemen instead of German. It is stated that a number of Chinese stokers have been some firemen of a King Sin Line steamer have been discharged, because the steamer was to be manned with Chinese firemen.
